

Mock-up, not the app. Sample names and dates. This is the one card that would replace the three tutorial forms at the bottom of the Timetable tab, plus the consultation sheet built on the same engine as Stage 2. Nothing here is live.

Timetable

The board itself stays exactly as it is above this card. Scroll down and the three separate tutorial forms become the picture below.

Tutorials and consultations

You see your own group. The MCT sees all three.

Where every candidate stands, one row each. A cell is the state and the door: click it to invite, open a sheet, or see the booking.

Consultation sheet · Jordan Blake

Tue 15 Sep · 15:30 · four positions of 15 min. Same sheet as Stage 2: the candidate books the next open position, the sheet is the source of truth, nothing pings per booking.

1st	15:30	● Amara Okafor
2nd	15:45	● Priya Sharma
3rd	16:00	Open
4th	16:15	Open

Your rule, applied at booking. Before an assignment's first submission a candidate may book with any tutor. Once they have submitted it, consultation on that assignment is with their own tutor only. Daniel Kim has submitted LRT, so this sheet is closed to him and Marcus Webb's is open.

What changes, what does not

Stays as it is: the board, the Stage 2 engine, the Stage 1 and 3 invite actions, the candidate's own booking pages, the CELTA 5 records.

Goes: the three stacked forms. Their fields move into the cells and the two "Add block" buttons.

New: a consultation block that belongs to a tutor rather than a group, bookable more than once per candidate across the course, with the any-tutor-then-own-tutor rule. One migration.

Demo: seeded with two sheets, a few bookings and a mix of confirmed and pending invites, so the card is never empty on a walkthrough.
